

Recommendation letter for Mr. [REDACTED]

I am [REDACTED] Joshi working as Software Dev Engineer-Test with Amazon for about 4 years and have around 10 years of experience in Software Engineering & Test Automation.

I've worked directly with [REDACTED] on some of the key projects at [REDACTED] International Services and realized his superior abilities to deliver beyond normal and think of out of box solutions. He's was one of the most sought-after Automation developers at Dell Services who is very sharp minded, proactive and works in a very planned and organized manner. His strengths are his passion for writing computer programs, his listening skills, learning capabilities and remaining focused. He effort in the beginning of the project to make the delivery simple and error-free, which ultimately resulted in cutting down on rework time. I would strongly recommend him for any critical software development project where quality and attention to details is the essence.

When I was assigned the job of managing our offshore team at Dell Services, I had the task of quickly implementing changes to many of our critical systems. Aditya was solid performer for our offshore team, and it was great that he was very responsive to any of our company needs, even going as far as calling me directly during the night to discuss critical issues with our overnight processes.

Yes, he definitely earns my recommendation and am pretty sure he will raise the bar in all his future endeavors. Please feel free to reach out for any additional information.

Thanks,
